JOINER Jason Morgan is in the driving seat after winning his dream motor in the Daily Star.

He hit top gear to land a sporty new Honda Civic Type-R – the model he wanted to buy six months ago but couldn't afford.

Jason, 35, was the first winner in our Nobby's Knows contest in which we're giving away four of the cars.

Tomorrow the second Honda, worth a cool £17,000, will go to the reader who wins our Number Cruncher multiple choice trivia quiz.

■ by JOHN MAHONEY

Jubilant Jason, from Oldham Lancs, says he and wife Susan, 38, can now hit the road in style.

Fate

He said: "Six months ago I looked at a Type-R at the garage and would have killed for it."

"It looked fabulous but I only had a maximum of £13,500 to spend so it was out of my league. I took another Honda Civic instead but I've kept looking in the showroom window at the Type-R every time I go past.

"I've been a Daily Star reader all my life. I love cars, so when the contest started I did all five days and sent in my answer by text. It seemed like fate this model was meant for me."

After tomorrow we will be giving away another two identical motors – so keep playing, folks.

SOAPER

A nipple effect for silly Gilly

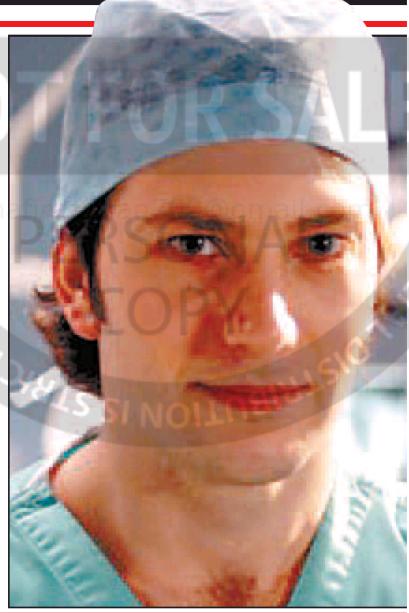

HOLLYOAKS layabout Gilly knows Jessica Harris is the ONE because his nipples tingle any time she is near. Gilly's pulsating pink bits provide the fun as the lovestruck lad – played by Anthony Quinlan – woos sexy student Jessica Harris.

And he scribbles his phone number on a chocolate wrapper, but Jessica (Jennifer Biddall, 20) eats the chocolate and throws the wrapper in the bin. Then he chuck's a glass of water over his mate Rhys, to get her attention.

But the situation becomes even more ridiculous when he believes he is in love with her because of stirrings under his t-shirt.

An insider for the Channel 4 soap said: "Gilly's antics always have fans in stitches and this latest fiasco is no exception.

"Viewers will find his tingling nipples one of the funniest stories of the year."

Doctors are wards apart

■ by NIGEL PAULEY

TWO new dishy doctors will be taking up residency at Holby City in January and they could not be more different.

Sam Strachan is a womanising party animal – while Joseph Byrne is an obsessed workaholic.

Tom Chambers, 28, (right) known for the movie Fakers, plays Sam. A source said: "Sam lives life to the full, when he parties he really parties."

Meanwhile, ex-Family Affairs and Mile High star, Luke Roberts, 28, plays registrar Joe. Our source said: "He is a man weighed down with guilt. Every day he persecutes himself for his brother's suicide."

TEEN SEX TORMENT

Warning for Street bosses as shock plot gets the go-ahead

■ by IAN BRANDES

CORRIE chiefs have given the final go-ahead for their shock storyline of illegal under-age sex.

As the Star has already revealed, 15-year-olds Rosie Webster and boyfriend Craig Harris will begin a full sexual relationship.

But producers have been warned that the sizzling story will be "a disaster and a disgrace" if it fails to reveal the real stress and torment that can affect randy youngsters.

Red-hot episodes next month will see Rosie – who has been putting off sex with Craig – will eventually decide that the time is right for her to lose her virginity.

Inexperienced Craig will also be keen on the idea and the young couple will finally end up between the sheets after months of talk.

UP FOR IT: Craig Harris

restrain their desires for sex. We'd stress that Rosie and Craig are not promiscuous. They have been boyfriend and girlfriend for ages and they want to take their loving relationship a crucial step further."

A spokesman for the Street confirmed the young couple were going to start an under-age sexual relationship as Rosie approaches her 15th birthday on Christmas Eve.

He stressed: "The storyline is being taken very seriously and will be handled responsibly by the team."

Stern

But last night Lynette Burrows, of pressure group Family and Youth Concern, issued a stern warning to execs.

She said: "The message which must not go out is that it is cool to sleep around at such a young age. To start with, 15-year-olds need to be told there are a lot of things to be worried about, such as what you are going to catch, the risk of getting pregnant and the loss of independence."

"Handled properly most people are sensible enough to regard it as TV fiction. Coronation Street will be aware of their responsibilities."

And she told them it would be a "disaster and disgrace" if they mess up the love story.

news@dailystar.co.uk

But Manchester soap executives are still worried that there may be protests because scenes of illegal sex – played by Helen Flanagan, 14, and Richard Fleeshman, 17 – will take place before the 9pm watershed.

Last night a Corrie insider insisted:

"We're hoping that complaints will be at a minimum because the storyline is not sensational – it is very valid."

"Many youngsters nowadays do not wait for the official age of consent and this storyline will mirror the real-life situation when teenagers cannot

Ian dash for cash doomed

IAN Beale's bid to make millions in Albert Square is about to hit the skids.

He'll lose a pot of cash on the Queen Vic and decides to flog The Arches garage too.

Ian, played by Adam Woodyatt, offers the workshop to Phil Mitchell in a bid to end their long feud.

An EastEnders insider said: "It'll be a blow to Ian – he still has aspirations to be a millionaire."

"But he realises the Mitchells are back and he wants to keep on the right side of them."

"His garage sale to Phil is one way of offering an olive branch. To be fair to Phil, he does actually buy the business instead of intimidating him out of it."

Viewers will soon see Ian's bid for the Queen Vic fail when it emerges Dirty Den's murderer wife Chrissie Watts forged the title deeds.

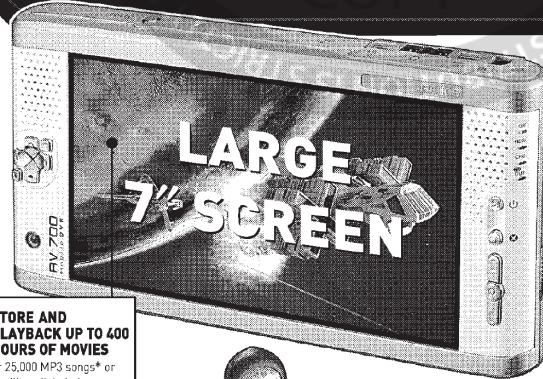

And actor Adam, 37, is expecting a big change of fortune for the soap.

He told a fan's mag: "No one's denying we've had a bad run of it. It's been the worst period I've known, but I hope people can see it's starting to improve."

NEW LOVER SMASHES PARIS CAR

WALK OF SHAME:
He gives up on the damaged Bentley

■ by TOM SAVAGE
PARIS Hilton's new fella got their romance off to a smashing start...trashing her £150,000 car.

Millionaire shipping heir Stavros Niarchos, 20, wrecked her Bentley while trying to avoid photographers in LA.

He ran into the back of a trailer while driving with the Simple Life star, 24, and pals including Rod Stewart's daughter Kimberly.

An onlooker said: "It all went very wrong for poor Stavros."

"It looked like he wasn't used to driving such a big car, although that's a surprise given his money."

Billionaire

"He had covered his face to avoid the photographers following him – and by the looks of his driving he still had the coat over his face when he set off."

"He ran straight into the back of a parked trailer."

"Amazingly Paris was OK about it, although I suppose you can be if you're a billionaire heiress yourself."

"There was thousands of dollars-worth of damage to the front of the car, but they just laughed about it."

"Our source revealed Stavros' woes continued as he tried to leave the scene – and ran straight into a photographer and a traffic warden."

He said: "It seemed like nothing was going right for him."

REVENGE: Justin

JUSTIN HUNTS PIRATE

JUSTIN Hawkins is taking anti-piracy measures personally – by buying a rogue copy of the new Darkness album he found on the internet.

The axe-hero spotted One Way Ticket To Hell And Back on a web auction site a month before its release and splashed out £350 on it.

But the seller should beware – Justin, 30, is determined to wreak revenge.

Afraid

He said: "I've bought our own album back off this character selling it on eBay."

"It cost me £350 and it's going to be a tenner when it's in the shops – with artwork."

"It's encoded so we'll have a name and a number – so we'll know which disc it is, who distributed it and who they distributed it to. And that person is going to go down."

Be afraid.

NIZ DO THE BIZ

HOT-championed Nizlopi have had the most cash splashed on them reaching Christmas No.1.

I told you about the lovely JCB Song being a fine winter warmer... and now it's third favourite for the Crimble top spot.

Rupert Adams of William Hill said: "Nizlopi have the most bets and would cost us the most if it is No.1 at Christmas."

The latest odds are: Westlife & Diana Ross 11-4; Crazy Frog 5-1, Santa 5-1, Nizlopi 6-1, G4 Ft. Robin Gibb 6-1, The Choir Boys 8-1, X Factor Winner 10/1, James Blunt 10/1.

X-rated Michelle

LIBERTY X babe Michelle Heaton languishes on a bed wearing not very much – and it's all for good cause.

The band release official Children In Need single A Night To Remember next Monday. In the vid the girls wear pleasing little hotpants.

A source said: "Liberty X have had a good comeback year. Last year was a little shaky but fingers crossed they're having a renaissance."

This picture of the lovely 25-year-old's certainly a work of art.

TICKET ANGER AS HIS WEBSITE MELTS...

EXCLUSIVE

ROBBIE Williams' website went into meltdown after being bombarded by fans desperate for tour tickets.

They paid £25 to become VIP members of robbiewilliams.com and get early access to tickets for the Intensive Care gigs.

But they were furious when the site ground to a halt.

It meant no-one could get hold of tickets when they were pre-released yesterday. One angry e-mail read: "The reason most of us fans paid £25 was the promise of advance ticket sales."

"The website cannot cope with the traffic and after two-and-a-half hours trying to access it, we finally got through to discover the payment system was broken."

Plenty

"Was the £25 worth it? Definitely not."

A spokesman for the site said: "Due to unprecedented demand we experienced problems."

"Be reassured that if you did not manage to successfully purchase tickets you will still be able to do so. There are plenty of tickets left."

Tickets go on sale to the general public on November 19. The tour is 31-year-old Robbie's biggest yet, with 23 shows in 13 countries starting in South Africa on April 10.

It finishes with four dates in England, including two at Wembley, in September 2006.

Child's play for Charlie

CHARLOTTE Church has turned to Kate Bush for inspiration on her new single. The Welsh warbler has taken the audacious step of covering a Bush classic on the B-side to the forthcoming Even God.

The gut-busting ballad will come paired with The Girl With The Child In Her Eyes. Charl is no stranger to the track, having performed an acoustic version on Dermot O'Leary's Radio 2 show in June. I'm intrigued, I admit it.

INTRIGUING: Lotte

FRANZ Ferdinand drummer Paul Thomson got a pasting on the set of the dapper Scots' new video.

Poor Paul, 29, ended up with a bloodied nose, black eye and fat lip during filming of the promo for new single The Fallen on Sunday. But don't worry, it was done with make-up...

LONELY James Bourne, 21, has enrolled his new band as flatmates. At one time he lived with Busted, now Dave from Son Of Dork keeps him company and plays dad.

He said: "I live with him and have to wake him up. I become the most evil person in the morning because of him. I start nagging." How romantic.

NOSH AND BECKS: David's so dishy

by GARY NICKS

WAYNE ROONEY certainly makes more than enough dough – and he's put in some really topping performances for England.

But even he'll have a shock when he sees this pizza, right, with his face on it. The Manchester United striker, 20, gets his very own slice of the action as he helps to launch a new Italian satellite football programme.

His grinning features appear on a four seasons pizza for Bravo's new Football Italia. England skipper David Beckham, 30, stares out from a plateful of pasta.

And legendary Italian referee Pierluigi Collina, 46, also gets the deep pan treatment.

Another to become a "pizza face" is the former Arsenal star Patrick Vieira, 29.

Bosses at Bravo even chartered a plane to fly 10 of the pizzas out to Italy, where he plays for Juventus. Football Italia, launched last night at a party in London, is on Bravo on Fridays at 6pm.

DESPERATE FLASHER

Star fired over claims he bared bits in studio

DESPERATE Housewives star Page Kennedy has been fired over claims he's a serial flasher.

Insiders say the 28-year-old actor has been baring his bits on the set of the Channel 4 show.

Full details of the allegations remained secret last night but the alleged offence did NOT involve another cast member, said a source close to the show.

Kennedy's public relations agent has now dumped him and his manager is not returning calls.

The actor played mysterious Caleb, who was held captive in the basement of Wisteria Lane newcomer Betty Applewhite, played by Alfie Woodard, 53. Last month US viewers discovered that his character may be responsible for a teenager's murder. Desperate

SACKED: Kennedy

Housewives publicist Janet Daily claimed Kennedy went after a "thorough investigation" of the allegations against him.

She said his final appearance will be screened in the US this weekend and seen here early next year - then the role will be recast.

Play

In an interview last month Kennedy said the Housewives role represented the chance of "making a name for myself".

He said: "I needed the opportunity to play this kind of character. It isn't the kind that comes around often and is usually played by a name actor." Detroit-born Kennedy has appeared in Six Feet Under as a football player who died of heat stroke and made his film debut as a bad guy in 2003's S.W.A.T.

The moment Di died...

Film relives last journey of Princess

■ by NIGEL PAULEY

PRINCESS Diana pauses outside The Ritz hotel in Paris . . . before taking her car ride to death.

That final fatal journey has been chillingly re-created for a new movie.

Diana and boyfriend Dodi Al Fayed, played by two unknown French actors, are seen stepping into the Mercedes limo with drunk-driver Henri Paul.

It then speeds through Parisian streets chased by photographers on motorbikes before spinning out of control in the Pont de l'Alma tunnel.

Insiders claim the film, due next year, aims to tell the true story of the "tumultuous" life of Diana.

And film-makers decided to recreate the last journey rather than rely on old footage.

Young

A source on the production said: "We want the film to be as accurate as possible. Princess Diana's life story is one of the most tragic tales of the last century."

"A beautiful, tortured woman who died much too young."

There have been many conspiracy theories surrounding the crash that killed Diana, 36, Dodi, 42, and Mr Paul, 41, in 1997.

But the source claimed the film – working title Queen – wanted to stick to the known facts.

Weeks before her death Diana, mother of Princes William, now 23, and Harry, 21, had claimed she feared being bumped off in a car crash.

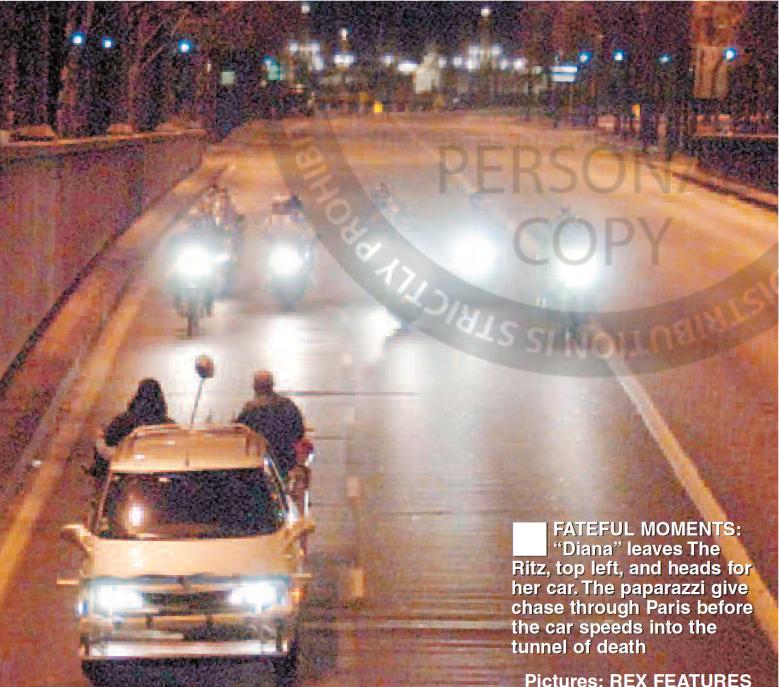

Tonight's episode of BBC1 spy saga Spooks also revolves around the death of the Princess.

A bizarre plot, featuring real footage of Diana's last moments, will claim she was murdered by MI5 agents.

An inquiry into the death is being conducted by a team led by former Metropolitan police chief Lord Stevens, 63.

Dodi's father, Harrods owner Mohamed Al Fayed, 72, has always claimed they were murdered.

WOMEN TAKE TWO YEARS TO GET READY

NO wonder blokes get angry – women in Britain spend two years of their lives preparing to go out.

They take nearly an hour to wash, do their hair and slap on the make-up before work.

That works out at nearly 10 days a year.

Then, when it comes to the weekend, they'll spend another hour-and-a-half preparing for a big night out – more than six days a year.

And over an average 42 years of working life, that adds up to a whopping 682.5 days, or nearly two years.

Men are way behind, spending only 236 days of their working lives getting ready. A spokesman for lastminute.com, which carried out the survey, said: "It's probably the longest-running dispute between men and women."

■ by BILL MARTIN

"Men always get agitated waiting for their other halves to get ready."

Festive

"It is one of those things you do every day of your life, but don't really think about. But when you add it up it's quite staggering to see how much of our time it takes up."

"With Christmas fast approaching, people tend to go out more and take even longer to get ready."

"So these figures could easily double – but I am sure more women would admit this than men."

Women admitted their most time-consuming task was picking the right outfit to wear (26 mins) and styling their hair (24 mins).

Men take little more than 10 minutes grooming and styling their hair and spend an average nine minutes in the bath or shower.

Seven out of 10 women readily admit they take longer than their partners to get ready while one in six men say the time their partners spend preparing regularly causes rows.

The spokesman added: "What men need to understand is that it doesn't matter if a woman is going out to a posh restaurant or the local cinema – if they don't look good, they don't feel good."

"If that happens, a disastrous night could be on the cards."

Why I W

GORGEOUS Mischa Barton has been given the sexiest order ever – to sleep with movie heart-throb Leonardo DiCaprio.

The stunning star of The OC could probably win the heart of any man she sets her heart on in Hollywood.

But her cheeky publicist Craig Schneider decided Titanic star Leo, 30, was the perfect choice – because it would send the sexy TV babe's career into orbit. Mischa giggles as she tells how, at a photoshoot in Malibu, Craig saw Leo and joked: "For the sake of your career, go sleep with that man."

by KATE JAC

Mischa, 19, has just split with her oil heir boyfriend Brandon Davis, 22, so she's young, free and single.

Plus, she lives just a stone's throw

Don't sleep with Leo

CKSON

In the Gangs Of New York star. But it

ms Leo isn't her cup of tea.

Mischa, the new face of High

Street giant Accessorize, says too old: "Isn't he, like, 30 or someg?" she asks, rolling her eyes.

It's not as though Mischa needs fella to help further her career. She has been acting since she was eight, starring on Broadway before progressing to the big screen.

In the movie Lawn Dogs in 1997, Mischa – then 11 – was hailed as the most talented child actress since Jodie Foster in Taxi Driver.

She spent her school years doing bit parts in films, TV shows and on stage.

But it was sexy teenage drama The OC which made her a superstar.

Mischa plays Marissa Cooper, who began as a sweet girl-next-door type before plunging into depression, drink – and lesbianism.

She tells this month's Harpers & Queen magazine: "She's the wild card of the show. Marissa epitomises all that is wrong with youth these days. She's purposely over-written and sensationalised."

The next season of The OC, which starts in January, will see the four main characters – Marissa, Ryan, Seth and Summer – tackling more grown-up problems.

But Mischa is keen to avoid being stereotyped and has been filming a couple of independent films, Decameron and The OH In Ohio.

She will also be kept busy in her new role as the face of Accessorize, taking over from supermodel Naomi Campbell, 35, Sophie Dahl, 26, and Lizzie Jagger, 21.

And the half-Irish lass is also rumoured to be in the running to play Wonder Woman in a new movie – a role she admits she'd love.

"Can you imagine playing Wonder Woman? That would be amazing," she says. Judging by these sensational shots, Mischa's already one of the wonders of the world.

JANE O'GORMAN SOLVES
YOUR PROBLEMS TODAY
... AND EVERY DAY

I want to bed
my pal

THAI-BREAKER

Dad's new bride is splitting family

I HAD no idea how much I fancied my best mate until I saw her stripping in our local pub.

Suddenly I realised that it was her that I truly lusted after and loved.

As she teasingly peeled the clothes off her body and swayed her hips to the music, I felt more aroused than I had in years.

I was totally deaf to the catcalls and jeers around me and could only drink in the vision in front of me.

Finally, when she was totally naked, I looked up into her eyes and mouthed "I love you," to which she replied "me too".

But I really don't think she realises how much I love her and what kind of love it is. I just don't love her as a mate, I want to be her lover. I want us to go to bed together.

But whenever I try to get close enough to explain this, she changes the subject. I'm horribly frustrated and need to get this out in the open.

JANE SAYS: I suspect your friend knows perfectly well how you feel, she's simply trying to spare your feelings.

If you've tried to tell her you love her and she's chosen to change the subject, then you've got to assume she's hearing you loud and clear.

The fact she's not responding can only mean she's not interested. If you carry on pestering her, then you could lose her altogether.

Why don't you accept what you both have?

MUM nearly had a nervous breakdown when Dad married a Thai bride right after their divorce.

None of us could quite believe he'd found himself a 19-year-old dancer – especially as he's 52 and registered disabled.

On the day of the wedding, Mum checked herself into a local clinic with a stress-related illness.

Needless to say, none of us attended the ceremony – instead, we made it perfectly clear to Dad that we strongly disapproved of his choice.

To be fair, he admitted his new wife had probably come as something of a shock to us and promised to live a discreet life in future.

Terrifying

He said he would understand if we didn't want him and my new stepmother (who happens to be five years younger than me) at family parties, weddings and important meals.

For two years it's worked out okay, with him keeping a respectful distance and with us just getting on with our lives.

But now he's heard that my mum has got herself a boyfriend – a younger guy – and he's gone ape.

Suddenly he's demanding that he and his wife are issued the same invitations mum and her toyboy get.

He says that they're both equal now.

Dad wants to come to my son's fifth birthday, to the school concert and – most terrifying of all – to my house for the Christmas break. He's insisting that I put aside a bedroom for him and his wife and that we all welcome her as one of we all.

I can't tell you what friction this is causing.

Mum says that she's not coming if he's going to be there, my husband doesn't want any of them here and I'm stuck in the middle feeling horribly put upon.

All I want to do is keep the peace and play happy families but my warring parents are making it impossible.

JANE SAYS: I suppose your father has a point – if you're prepared to accept your mother's younger partner, then why aren't you prepared to welcome his wife?

Surely a wife has more status and demands more respect?

Talk to all of your family members again and see if you can come to a compromise.

Perhaps your dad could come for Christmas and then your mum could come for New Year or vice versa?

Where families have become estranged, there always has to be an element of give-and-take on both sides.

But I really wouldn't let your parents pull your strings too much.

At this stage of your life, your first loyalty must be to your immediate family – your husband and children.

Make sure they are all completely happy with any arrangements and if they're not, then don't be shy about just saying "count me out" to your bickering parents.

EASTERN PROMISE:
Dad married a 19-year-old Thai dancer

MY brother has cleared out our late mother's flat without even telling me he was going in.

He has had her new TV and fridge and sold everything else at a car boot sale.

All I've got to remember her by are a few bits of jewellery that she once gave my wife.

I've had a massive row with my brother about this but he won't accept that he's done anything wrong.

He actually believes he's done us all a favour by "doing all the dirty work" – as he puts it.

Cash

But I wanted to do things respectfully and take my time in going through mum's stuff.

What also angers me is that I know she kept cash in the flat but he swears there was none there.

If he's stolen the lot, then I don't know if I'll ever be able to speak to him again.

JANE SAYS: Sorting out a dead relative's stuff is always tricky. Invariably one party feels that someone else has helped themselves to the best bits. I do agree that your brother has behaved hastily.

But nothing is going to bring your mother back and what's done is done.

I'm sure that your mother would not have wanted you and your brother to fight, so honour her memory by putting this behind you and getting on with your life.

If your brother has had the cash, then that's unfortunate, but it's not the end of the world.

GAMBLER IS SUCH A LOSER

MY boyfriend has given up his job and now gambles full time on the internet.

A couple of weeks ago he hit a losing streak. He lost lots of money and finally came to me in despair.

He begged me to lend him the £6,000 I had saved towards a new car. Initially I said no but in the end he said he'd kill himself if I didn't help.

Reluctantly I handed the cash over and that night his luck changed and he made thousands.

He paid me back my cash and I waited for my cut, but it has never come. Can you believe he hasn't given me one penny of his winnings?

JANE SAYS: No, I can't say that I'm surprised. If your boyfriend sees himself as a professional gambler, then why would he hand over his earnings?

In his world your cash was a bridging loan.

You should look at the bigger picture and be worried about a boyfriend who threatens to kill himself if you don't do as he says.

And what will happen next time you hand over £6,000 and he loses it?

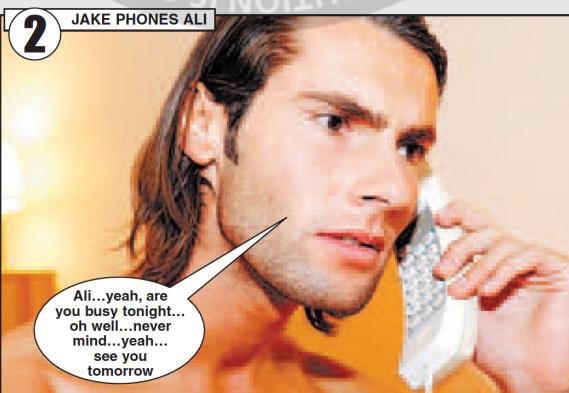

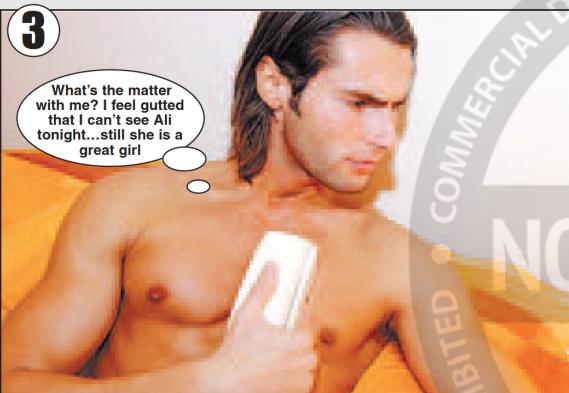

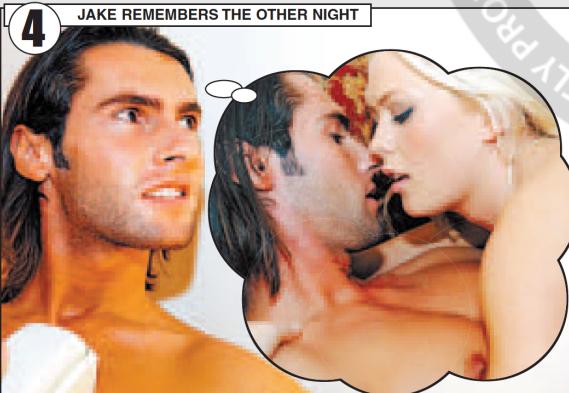

Suggest that he contacts Gamblers Anonymous (0870 050 8880).

As for you, it's time to think carefully about staying with this unstable man.

Chris spooks up for

By LINDA HARRISON

HUNKY Chris Parker aims to scare the wits out of us with a Most Haunted special - even though he doesn't believe in ghosts!

The ex-EastEnders hunk, 21, is teaming up with Gail Porter, 34, to present Dead Famous live from some of Hollywood's top showbiz haunts.

They'll be trying to make contact with the spirits of stars including James Dean, Marilyn Monroe, Charlie Chaplin and rocker Jim Morrison.

Angel

But as he gets set for the three-day show to kick off tomorrow, Chris is sceptical about their likelihood of encountering any ghostly celebs.

"I've never had a supernatural experience," he says. "A few friends have said they've seen ghosts."

"Fern Britton reckons she's been touched by an angel. I know her from working on This Morning and she's quite level-headed. I can't see her making something like that up."

"I believe there's something out there, but I don't know quite what."

Viewers will see Gail team up with a psychic to visit sites around Los Angeles, trying to make contact with the spirits of stars such as Elvis Presley and John Lennon.

Meanwhile, Chris will be in the studio with historians, ghost-hunters and an audience.

"It's going to be pretty amazing," he says. "It will be my job to talk to Gail while she's searching for any paranormal activity."

"It's three live shows and they're three hours each. So if they don't find anything, I'm going to have to fill in a lot of time with the audience!"

"But I'm really looking forward to it. We're going to be chatting to some friends and family of the deceased. We're even going to have Charlie Chaplin's family in the studio."

Out on the streets, Gail and American psychic Chris Fleming, 38, plan to visit the Culver Studios, where Gone With The Wind and King Kong were filmed.

They'll also investigate Hollywood High School, which nurtured the talents of Mickey Rooney, 85, and Judy Garland.

The team will brave hotel rooms and

dearly departed

houses with an A-list history to try to pick up on any spooky activity.

Chris has spent a lot of time with Gail preparing for the show. The Scottish lass, who recently split with Toploader husband Dan Hippgrave, 29, was in the news when it emerged she was suffering from hair-loss.

Girls

"Gail's so lovely," says Chris. "She's got such a great sense of humour. The reports in the Press don't bother her in the slightest. She's like, 'If my hair's falling out, then so be it'."

What else is Chris planning to do while he's in LA? "Maybe meet a few girls," he says with a cheeky grin. "I like the girls out there. In the US I'm not so paranoid as I am over here. Although I can't think of anything worse than having to share my bed with someone every night!"

Chris admits he's a shy guy with girls and says he's useless at chatting up strangers. But he admits having lost his heart to an older woman. Although, sadly for him, she's happily married.

He says: "I'm totally in love with Zoe Ball. She's beautiful and talented. She just oozes coolness."

He adds of the Strictly Come Dancing star, 34: "I suppose I'm in love with her in a bit of an obsessed way."

Husband Norman Cook, 42, aka Fatboy Slim, had better take note.

• Dead Famous is on Living TV tomorrow, Saturday and Sunday at 9pm.

THIS weekend's Dead Famous is a special live spin-off from the usual Most Haunted format.

Gail Porter and psychic sidekick Chris Fleming will be investigating sightings of celeb spooks and trying to uncover what the famous are doing today, after their death.

They will visit the stars' favourite haunts – hotel rooms, diners and theatres – and try to contact the spirits which now inhabit them.

Chris will be trying to "connect" with the celeb ghosts, sometimes using equipment to pick up on paranormal activity.

The pair will also talk to those who knew the stars in life, as well as those who claim to have seen them as ghosts.

WHAT'S HOT TO WATCH TODAY

MARTIN Clunes is back on ITV1 tonight (9pm) as DOC MARTIN, the GP who's so grumpy, rude and tactless that he really ought to be working as a receptionist at my local surgery.

A massive ratings smash the first time around (at its peak, it was just fractionally short of nine million viewers), the series returns to the picturesque Cornish village of Portwenn to find Dr Martin Ellingham (that's his real name, remember) still making a complete pig's ear of his friendship with primary school teacher Louisa (Caroline Catz).

Having made some rather undiplomatic remarks about her dental hygiene regime (it hasn't occurred to him that she might take offence), the doc makes no attempt to apologise, preferring instead just to keep out of her way. But he's forced to start questioning his feelings when one of Louise's old flames shows up, seemingly quite keen to rekindle their romance. As well as making Dr Ellingham desperately jealous, this guy is also soon challenging his professional judgment.

■ ALSO returning tonight are Five's spectacularly slappable interior design duo Colin and Justin with a new series of HOW NOT TO*

DECORATE (Five, 8pm). They decided that to kick off the new series it would be fun to work with a pair of celebrities, but the plan must have fallen by the wayside, because they've ended up with Neil and Christine Hamilton. Still, the Hammonds offer them plenty of scope for bitchiness. Colin and Justin hate the décor of the couple's London flat, as underlined when Colin suggests one of the rooms "looks like it should smell of wee".

■ ELSEWHERE, Ian The Weasel is gutted in EASTENDERS tonight (BBC1, 7.30pm) when he learns the Vic is not legally his after all. Diddums.

...ON LAST NIGHT'S TV

IT'S not every day that TV producers have to ask a dead Roman Emperor for permission to make a programme. But according to BBC1's DRAMA CONNECTIONS, that's what happened in 1976, when bosses wanted to film the classic Roman soap opera I, Claudius.

Legend had it that the real Claudius, an emperor who was made into a god, put a curse on anyone trying to tell his story. In 1973, director Alexander Korda ignored this. But his film was abandoned after a series of disasters. Forty years on, the BBC weren't taking any chances, so they spoke to Robert Graves, who'd written the original novel. Graves told them Claudius would definitely approve of the project.

Despite an uncertain start, the show was a hit, with an all-star cast including Brian Blessed, Sian Phillips and John Hurt. It influenced a generation of script-writers, including David Chase, creator of mob-drama series The Sopranos.

There were some dodgy attempts to prove that the curse of Claudius was for real.

Role

We learned that after I Claudius, Margaret Tyack, who played murderous Empress Livia, had to go to the States to find work. And George Baker, aka Inspector Wexford, didn't get another role for seven months. But that's not unusual for a TV actor.

The programme continued its tradition of telling interesting stories of TV's greatest drama hits. It's been a mildly entertaining series throughout. But you wonder if the BBC should stop the nosalgia about its past success, and spend the money on new work.

At least CORONATION STREET (ITV1) has started to look forwards. On Monday, Candice left to be Status Quo's hairdresser. Then last night Martin Platt took off.

It's not really obvious why Martin had to go – he's not the most exciting bloke, but a soap needs a few ordinary characters to keep the whole thing looking real.

Still, there's plenty to watch in Martin's absence. His son David, brilliantly played by Jack P Shepherd, is going off the rails. So even if the Street has lost some furniture, the next generation are able to fill the gap.

GOLF is simply a good walk spoiled according to American writer Mark Twain – and plenty of non-fans think he had a point. It's like a dog throwing itself a stick to chase after as far as they're concerned. But like plenty of sports, golf has some great terms you don't find anywhere else.

One of the listed items has been holed and can't be found in the grid. Which one?

£10 LETTER

WHY are some MPs willing to gamble with our lives by opposing the 90-day detention of suspected terrorists?

I wish you'd publish the names of these so-called protectors of the public.

I reckon that many of them are too busy enjoying subsidised drinks at our expense in their plush parliamentary bars to bother finding out what we, the British public, think.

F. BURTON,

Catford, S. London.

WE vote them in and their oversized salaries come out of the extortions taxes they impose on us. So I think we should expect more from our MPs. What do most of them do all day? They hardly give us value for money.

D. J. WILSON,

Doxey, Staffs.

IF the Post Office won't withdraw all the horrible Christmas stamps, let us do it for them – by refusing to buy them for our Christmas cards. Let the boycott start now!

Mrs E. PICKERSGILL,

Bolton, Lancs.
